None of the laws were more rigidly enforced than those intended to prevent the "prophaning of the Lord's day." The old records are full of convictions for violation of them. Capt. Kimble, of Boston, was in 1656 set for two hours in the public stocks for his "lewed and unseemly conduct," which consisted in kissing his wife publicly on the Sabbath day upon the doorstep of his house, when he had just returned from a voyage after an absence of three years. The story is told of Robert Pike, of Amesbury, that, having to go on a journey, he waited patiently until the sun sank behind the western clouds on Sunday evening, and then mounted his horse; but he had only gone a short distance when the last ray gleamed through a break in the clouds, and the next day ment a chance to vary the monotony he was brought before the court and

They Are of the Daintiest and Most Delightful Nature.

New Skirt Is Graceful in Its Lines and Universally Becoming -Blouses Trimmed in Laces and Embroidery.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

S FAR as it is possible to judge A at the present moment, there seems to be every reason to believe that the fashions of the immediate future will be of the daintiest and most delightful description. The weather this spring has been so cold and generally disagreeable that really smart clothes have been in very little demand, in consequence whereof modistes have had a much longer period of rest than is usually the case, and they seem to have employed their leisure to the greatest possible advantage in the designing of charming gowns suitable for both early and midsummer wear, which are far prettier and more generally becoming than anything which has been seen for many seasons. To be sure, some of the main features that marked the spring styles are carried out in the summer modes, but all are changed and improved upon to such a degree as to be hardly recognizable. The new skirt continues to fit with glove-like snugness about the hips, and with the same wonderful amount of flare at the bottom as heretofore. The jaunty little bolero is to be seen on every other gown as of yore, while the old, yet ever new, blouse-bodice collars of embroidered lawn. These still reigns supreme; but, somehow, collars are worn low on the shoulder by a bold contrast of color, an extra and give rather a sloping effect, with sash, to the rever of the bolero or a an inner vest of tucked lawn and lace deft twist to the pouched bodice, the to correspond. The very prettiest are of finely-tucked lawn or batiste, and their beauty is further enhanced by the wise introduction of fine lace insertions. The sleeves are tight at the top but become fuller toward the wrist, and like the remainder of the waist seem to be an intricate mass of tiny tucks and fine lace.

The chic bodice was rendered doubly so by means of a jaunty white cloth bolero, cut very short in the back to show a folded girdle of turquoise blue panne velvet. I know the intermingling of rose pink and turquoise blue sounds rather daring, but in this particular instance the combination was introduced by the artistic fingers of a master hand, with comingness. results that were simply stunning. Cool-looking dimities and French lawns are to be reckoned among the most attractive materials now on exhibition, while the silk ginghams and embroidered cotton batistes are lovely enough to tempt the unwary into rank extravagance. They come in white, pale blue, light green and all the pretty new shades of pink. Some of the silk ginghams have a double border of silk woven on the edge, which is meant to be used as a trimming in connection with much lace and yards upon yards of the ever-popular Persian ribbon. JAMES O'CONNELL.

Among the labor leaders of the United States none occupies a more important position than Mr. O'Connell, who as president of the International Association of Machinists controls an army of 100,000 skilled workmen. He was born in Minersville Pa., 42 years ago, and was apprenticed to the trade of machinist at 15. After the Knights of Labor began to decline he stirred himself to action in the labor field, and rose rapidly in his union, being elected president in 1892. During his rule the union has grown from 4,000 to 55,000 in the United States, Canada and Mexico. Since 1895 he has also been one of the vice presidents of the American Federation of Labor.

Donahoe's Magazine. None of the laws were more rigidly enforced than those intended to prevent the "prophaning of the Lord's day." The old records are full of convictions for violation of them. Capt. Kimble, of Boston, was in 1656 set for two hours in the public stocks for his 'lewed and unseemly conduct," which consisted in kissing his wife publicly on the Sabbath day upon the doorstep of his house, when he had just returned from a voyage after an absence of three years. The story is told of Robert Pike, of Amesbury, that, having to go on a journey, he waited patiently until the sun sank behind the western clouds on Sunday evening, and then mounted his horse; but he had only gone a short distance when the last ray gleamed through a break in the clouds, and the next day he was brought before the court and Delightful Nature.

New Skirt Is Graceful in Its Lines and Universally Becoming -Blouses Trimmed in Laces and Embroidery.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

S FAR as it is possible to judge at the present moment, there seems to be every reason to believe that the fashions of the immediate future will be of the daintiest and most delightful description. The weather this spring has been so cold and generally disagreeable that really smart clothes have been in very little demand, in consequence whereof modistes have had a much longer period of rest than is usually the case, and they seem to have employed their leisure to the greatest possible advantage in the designing of charming gowns suitable for both early and midsummer wear, which are far prettier and more generally becoming than anything which has been seen for many seasons. To be sure, some of the main features that marked the spring styles are carried out in the summer modes, but all are changed and improved upon to such a degree as to be hardly recognizable.

The new skirt continues to fit with glove-like snugness about the hips, and with the same wonderful amount of flare at the bottom as heretofore. The jaunty little bolero is to be seen on every other gown as of yore, while the old, yet ever new, blouse-bodice still reigns supreme; but, somehow, collars are worn low on the shoulder by a bold contrast of color, an extra and give rather a sloping effect, with sash to the rever of the bolero or a an inner vest of tucked lawn and lace deft twist to the pouched bodice, the to correspond. The blouse and the shirt waist again show a tendency toward much fine handwork and incrustations of lace and embroidery. The very prettiest are of finely-tucked lawn or batiste, and their beauty is further enhanced by the wise introduction of fine lace insertions. The sleeves are tight at the top but become fuller toward the wrist, and like the remainder of the waist seem to be an intricate mass of tiny tucks and fine lace.

Anothergown in which this idea was very prettily carried out was in a lovely shade of rose pink lightly patterned in black and white. The chic bodice was rendered doubly so by means of a jaunty white cloth bolero, cut very short in the back to show a folded girdle of turquoise blue panne velvet. I know the intermingling of rose pink and turquoise blue sounds rather daring, but in this particular instance the combination was introduced by the if not for its beauty and general beartistic fingers of a master hand, with comingness. cotton fabrics cannot but appeal in the strongest manner to the love of the beautiful innate in womankind. Cool-looking dimities and French lawns are to be reckoned among the most attractive materials now on exhibition, while the silk ginghams and embroidered cotton batistes are lovely enough to tempt the unwary into rank extravagance. They come in white, pale blue, light green and all the pretty new shades of pink. Some of the silk ginghams have a double border of silk woven on the edge, which is meant to be used as a trimming in connection with much lace and yards upon yards of the ever-popular Persian ribbon. Many of the new mercerized ducks and cheviots, cotton though they be, are exceedingly beautiful, and so closely resemble the most lustrous silk as to make them quite admirably suited for any but the most dressy wear. Within the week I have seen some very swell-looking tailorgowns fashioned of both these materials, those of cheviot being particularly fetching. Many of the new hats are worn tilted off the face, and cut up the back to show the new low coiffure, the brims being lined with some controlling color. Some are quite square in front, the entire crowns being garlanded in flowers. The wide boat shape is kept flat and simply trimmed with foliage. I rather doubt whether this new flat style of headgear will prove becoming to many, but it is a change; and so we welcome it for its air of novelty

The Mystery of "Two Ten."

Baroness Burdette Coutts was once shopping in Paris, and whenever she went from one department to another she was escorted by a clerk, who handed her over to another attendant, saying: "Two ten." Struck by the peculiarity of the oft-repeated cabalistic words, the baroness asked the proprietor as she left the establish-

"Pray, what does 'two ten' mean? I noticed that each clerk repeated it to the next as I went from one counter to the other."

"Oh, it is nothing," replied the man. "It is just a password they are in the habit of exchanging." But the baroness was not satisfied. When the porter, a mere lad, brought home her purchase, she said to him:

"My boy, would you like to earn five francs?" Of course he would be charmed.

"Then tell me what 'two ten' means, and I will give you five francs." The youth looked at her in astonishment.

"Don't you know, madam? Why, it means: 'Keep your eyes on her ten

In the convention proper there was no contest over either proposition, but soon after the committee on resolutions met at 9 o'clock in and there was quite a hot discussion, put. led for the action by ex-Secretary Hilary A. Herbert and Gens. J. B. Gordon and S. D. Lee for the resolutions before a unanimous report was secured from the committee.

The resolutions as reported and adopted thank the congress and president for removing the remains of some Confederates from the District of Columbia to the Arlington National Cemetery, and ask them to assume the care and preservation of the graves of Confederates buried in the North.

By the adoption of the report of the trustees for the memorial association, the convention approved of paying Gen. John C. Underwood over $25,000 for his work in securing the amount necessary to validate the Charles Broadway Rouss offer of $100,-

The trustees will soon meet in Louisville to make plans for the erection of the buildings.

The constitution was amended so that none but the convention could invite guests to it.

A movement was started to erect a suitable memorial to the women of the South for the aid which they gave to the Confederacy.

Impressive services were held in memory of the Daughter of the Confederacy and other Confederate dead. Gens. Gordon, Wade Hampton, S. D. Lee and W. L. Cabell were enthusias-

As soon as Gen. Gordon called the convention to order, he asked the assemblage to join in singing "Old Hundred" and thousands of voices joined in that grand old hymn, "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow,"

The report was adopted.

Noise on the street interrupted the convention at this point so badly that Gen. Gordon said that if the local authorities could not stop it, he could do so with the old veterans. (Applause.)

The rules provided that all resolutions must go unread to the committee and the first one presented was one of thanks to the old Confederate darkies; another was to erect a monument to the old slaves. There was one memorializing congress to erect a monument to Lieut.-Col. Robert E. Lee, U. S. A., in Washington.

Gen. S. D. Lee, chairman of the Historical commitee, then presented the report of that committee.

There was somewhat of a tangle growing out of the proposition to adopt the report without reading it, Gen. Cabell leading. A member from Texas moved that the report to make a special order for 3 o'clock in the afternoon and that was adopted.

Mr. Roberts, from the camp at Franklin, Tenn., presented for reference and future action a resolution looking toward weeding out of the camps any who did not remain in the service to the end of the war. Evening Session.

When the convention reassembled at 3 o'clock there was a good attendance of delegates, but the great bulk of the visitors preferred seeing the flower parade. The noise of whistles on the outside and of a Clarksville, Tenn., serenading party also caused some confusion and delay in the hall.

The whole population of the city turned out and this was augumented by the thousands upon thousands of visitors who are here from all parts of the country. The parade, which took two and one half hours to pass a given point, marched through solid walls of human beings, who cheered themselves hoarse in efforts to shout acclaim to the veterans. It was really awesome to those isolated from the marchers and the crowds to hear the constant roar of the 100,000 blended human voices as they rose and fell like the waves of the ocean.

The crowd was lavish with its applause. It gave Gens. Gordon, Fitzhugh Lee and Joe Wheeler regular ovations and then cheered each army division, each camp, each bivouac, the States, the sponsors and even individuals whose characteristics would make them noticable, as they passed.

The crowds were there to do honor to all that is palpable of the Confederacy. When the battle-scarred flags were borne past hats were lifted and the crowds gazed on them reverently and with bared heads.

In the light of recent investigation, and after mature deliberation and consideration of the campaigns of the war, the world has been forced to recognize the abilities of the great cavalry leader. In the last few years Gen. How Mothers may Help their Daughters into Womanhood

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. That daughter is a precious legacy, and the responsibility for her future is largely in the hands of the mother. The mysterious change that develops the thoughtless girl into the thoughtful woman should find the mother on the watch day and night. As she cares for the physical well-being of her daughter, so will the woman be, and her children also.

When the young girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she experiences headaches, dizziness, faintness, and exhibits an abnormal disposition to sleep, pains in the back and lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike for the society of other girls, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then the mother should go to her aid promptly. At such a time the greatest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the coming change, and is the surest reliance in this hour of trial.

The following letters from Miss Good are practical proof of Mrs. Pinkham's efficient advice to young women.

In the convention proper there was no contest over either proposition, but soon after the committee on resolutions met at 9 o'clock in the forenoon the question came up, and there was quite a hot discussion, put. led for the action by ex-Secretary Hilary A. Herbert and Gens. J. B. Gordon and S. D. Lee for the resolutions before a unanimous report was secured from the committee.

The resolutions as reported and adopted thank the congress and president for removing the remains of some Confederates from the District of Columbia to the Arlington National Cemetery, and ask them to assume the care and preservation of the graves of Confederates buried in the North.

By the adoption of the report of the trustees for the memorial association, the convention approved of paying Gen. John C. Underwood over $25,000 for his work in securing the amount necessary to validate the Charles Broadway Rouss offer of $100,-

The trustees will soon meet in Louisville to make plans for the erection of the buildings.

The constitution was amended so that none but the convention could invite guests to it.

A movement was started to erect a suitable memorial to the women of the South for the aid which they gave to the Confederacy.

Impressive services were held in memory of the Daughter of the Confederacy and other Confederate dead. Gens. Gordon, Wade Hampton, S. D. Lee and W. L. Cabell were enthusiastically re-elected to their present po-

Forrest cavalry corps made one of the best shows in the parade. This reunion has done more than all the histories and reunions of the past thirtyfive years to bring the deeds of the famous cavalry leader to the attention of the world. The men who followed the "Wizard of the Saddle" knew his worth as a general, but the world has been reluctant to acknowledge him the genius that he was. In the light of recent investigation, and after mature deliberation and consideration of the campaigns of the war, the world has been forced to recognize the abilities of the great cavalry leader. In the last few years Gen. Forrest has become be. ter known to the student of history than ever before, and those who saw nothing specially brilliant in his record before are beginning to acknowledge him one of the greatest generals that fought on either side.

Following the veteran sires, with their grizzled locks, war-worn visages and feebler step came the Sons of Veterans.

The Sons of Veterans fell in line after Forrest cavalry, and were headed by the Memphis drum corps.

How Mothers may Help their Daughters into Womanhood

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. That daughter is a precious legacy, and the responsibility for her future is largely in the hands of the mother. The mysterious change that develops the thoughtless girl into the thoughtful woman should find the mother on the watch day and night. As she cares for the physical well-being of her daughter, so will the woman be, and her

When the young girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she experiences headaches, dizziness, faintness, and exhibits an abnormal disposition to sleep, pains in the back and lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike for the society of other girls, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then the mother should go to her aid promptly. At such a time the greatest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the coming change, and is the surest reliance in this hour of trial.

The following letters from Miss Good are practical proof of Mrs. Pinkham's efficient advice to young women.

Miss Good asks Mrs. Pinkham for Help.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-I have been very much bothered for some time with my monthly periods being irregular. I will tell you all about it, and put myself in your care, for I have heard so much of you. Each month menstruation would become less and less, until it entirely stopped for six months, and now it has stopped again. I have become very neryous and of a very bad color. I am a young girl and have always had to work very hard. I would be very much pleased if you would tell me what to do. "-Miss PEARL Good

The Happy Result.

February 10th, 1900. "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - I cannot praise E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is just simply wonderful the change your medicine has made in me. I feel like another person. My work is now a pleasure to me, while before using your medicine it was a burden. To-day I am a healthy and happy girl. I think if more women would use your Vegetable Compound there would be less suffering in the world. I cannot express the relief I have experienced by using Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound."—MISS PEARL GOOD, Cor. 29th Avenue and Yeslar Way, Seattle, Wash.

HAS ADOPTED MAXIMITE.

The United States Has the Most Powerful Explosive Yet Conceived by Man.

ITS USE WOULD MAKE WAR UNPOPULAR.

Twelve Inches of Harveyized Nickel and It is the Least Dangerous Explosive to Handle.

New York, June 3 .- The Press says: Maximite, the new explosive invented by Hudson Maxim, has been adopted by this country after a series of successful tests at the Saudy Hook proving grounds. The secret of the explosive, it is thought, may revolutionize warfare. It is said to be more deadly than lyddite, yet so off this city. She is drifting toward safely can it be handled that the danger attaching to its use is less than secon life-saving crews have gone to that incurred in transporting ordinary powder.

A chell propelled by it will pierce a 12-inch Harveyized nickel plate. Never before has a plate of this ducted with great secrecy. The opinion is expressed by experts that maximite may revolutionize the building of battleships and fortifications. The intensitiveness of this explosive is so great that a red hot iron may be thrust into a mass of it without causing an explosion. The explosion of the compound, after passing through heavy with no insurance. the plate, is accomplished by means of a fuse. Shells filled with lyddite. the high explosive adopted by the British government, filled in the same way as was maximite into the same shells, and fired at a plate an inch on impact, where the maximite shells passed through the steel plates a foot n thickness. These tests of maximite are regarded as having demonstrated that there is no warship of any navy capable of withstanding its destructive effects. Mr. Maxim conducted these experiments in person, there being no one present except the ordnace officers and experts representing the government.

Should the United States now beer power, we will be able to throw high explosive projectiles through lantic ports last week were 86,900 the thickest armor of our enemies to explode inside their warships, while they, in turn, would be able only to penetrate our armour with solid shot, charge whatever."

Kansas Crops in Danger.

Topeka, Kas., June 3 .- The wheat crop of Kansas is in a critical condition. The long drought and the ravages of the Hessian fly and wheat louse have seriously damaged it. A month ago a total yield of 100,000,000 bushels was expected. To-day that estimate is reduced 50 per cent.

Millions for Baseball,

A million of dollars are spent every year upon the game of baseball, but large as this sum is, it cannot begin to equal the amount spent by people in search of health. There is a sure method of obtaining strength, and it is not a costly one. We urge those who have spent much and lost hope to try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It strengthens the stomach, makes digestion easy and natural, and cures dyspepsia; constipation, biliousness and weak kidneys.

Worms

CASCARETS are a sure cure for tape worms and those other pests of worms that make the lives of children and their mothers miserable. Any variety of parasites that live in the human stomach or bowels, and feed on the substance which should properly nourish the body, are dislodged by Cascarets Candy Cathartic, and expelled. One or two tablets usually drive them out, and persistent use is sure to do away with the unwelcome intruders. Many children and older people suffer from worms without knowing it, and get thin and weak, although their appetite is good. The best way to find out is to take Cascarets. Never accept a substitute!
